This class will take a whole new approach to reading residential-commercial buildings and is designed to provide essential tools that are based on a simple four step method to assist in making rapid street-reads.

These reads will assist in determining the primary factors of strength, weaknesses, collapse hazards, new construction features, and evaluating fireground time as the time necessary to accomplish any fireground operation is one of the foundations of safe and effective operations.

Once attendees are introduced to the four-step method of reading buildings, multiple 360-degree perimeter videos will allow the opportunity to practice the four-step rapid street-read method.

This class should be mandatory for all firefighters, company officers and Battalion Chiefs.
