Learning From Leaders II – 2021 edition

April 8 with Chief Steve Prziborowski

Courage Under Fire Leadership

Do you have what it takes to be a great fire officer? When I say great fire officer, I envision someone who is willing to not settle for incompetence, mediocrity, or inappropriate behavior, and is willing to not be his or her crew's best friend every minute of the day. A great fire officer is a leader, a boss, a supervisor, and as some say, a designated adult when needed. Something inappropriate or unethical makes social media or the internet daily that reflects negatively on upon the fire service. What's the common denominator? The lack of leadership at the firehouse!

As a fire officer in today's fire service, you must possess courage under fire and continuously aspire to be the best officer you can be. Attendees, regardless of rank, will leave with numerous tips for leadership success.

The Top Commandments for Today's Fire Service Professional

This session is intended for fire service professionals of all ranks (especially current and future fire officers) who are open to suggestions for improvement and best practices. Sadly, many personnel of all ranks (especially officers) are just calling it in or have "retired in place." Attendees will be exposed to the top Commandments to inspire them to be the best they can be. Areas discussed include but are not limited to leadership, officer development, customer service, team building, emergency scene operations, mentoring and succession planning. It takes true "courage" to be a leader in today's fire service – do you have what it takes?
